(As with the "Faculty Inventory", you can use these twelve principles to help identify your areas of strength and areas for improvement.) These twelve principles are intended as guidelines to faculty and administrators interested in the improvement of teaching and learning. The list is derived, in part, from a study co-sponsored by

Twelve Principles of Effective Teaching and Learning

Fundamental principles are those that have a critical influence on learning—that is basic, vital principles upon which successful learning depends. Universal principles are those that might reasonably be construed to apply broadly to many different types of learning, including: changes in behavior, the acquisition of factual and conceptual knowledge, the mastery of complex motor skills, the development of intellectual capacity, and even changes in attitudes, desires, or beliefs.
